JESUITS OF EASTERN AFRICA PROVINCE

[LOYOLA SECONDARY SCHOOL]

2015 PROFILE

Brief History

Loyola Secondary School (LSS) is a mixed day school established in the year 1982. The first intake of students was done in the year 1984. Unfortunately, due to the civil wars and turmoil in South Sudan, the school had to close down 2 years after opening. It was re-opened in April, 2008 with 180 students admitted to Senior One and Preparatory class. Currently, LSS has a student population of 574 (306 boys, 268 girls) with 30 part time teachers (29 male and 1 female), and 6 Jesuits working full time.

School Performance

A total of 9 candidates (4 boys, 5 girls) sat for the South Sudan Certificate of Secondary Education Examination, 2014/2015. Two of them attained grade A minus (-), six had B plus (+) and one had B plain. Bocop Obac Thabo Ajameng' was the candidate with the highest score, and she was among the top candidates in the whole country. Loyola Secondary School was ranked position 1, in the whole of South Sudan.

Projects and Activities Implemented

- Agriculture Project: initiated to ensure sustainable feeding program for the school. Students are being trained on sustainable agriculture and food security. Maize, ground nuts and beans are some of the crops currently planted in the school farm.

- Sponsorship program: mainly supports deserving needy students and ensures stability of education for young adults in South Sudan. 50 students (15 boys, 35 girls) received full scholarship. The program also ensured that each month, 100 girls were supplied with sanitary towels, while 50 more students received stationary.

This has helped to significantly reduce the number of students dropping out of school, mostly girls. Through the program, the school paid tuition fee for 5 students (2 girls, 3 boys) studying at the Catholic University of South Sudan.
